EARLY COLLEGE IT PROGRAM

The Early College IT Program is a partnership with Warren County Career Center. The program consists of college credit, hands on problem solving of real-world problems, and networking opportunities. Through partnerships with WCCC, the University of Cincinnati, and Sinclair Community College our students can earn transferable college credit hours. Students also have the option of taking these courses without earning college credit. Specifically, students that complete the requirements of the UC pathway may receive automatic or preferred acceptance into the University of Cincinnati IT program, where they can pick from Network Infrastructure, Cybersecurity, or Software Development. Following graduation from Fenwick, students can enter into a UC sponsored co-op and begin their sophomore year of college. Please review [this link] for more information regarding the UC IT Pathway. All transferable college credit earned is obtained through the Miami Valley Tech Prep Consortium. UC IT Pathway credit is earned through a bilateral agreement and only available when attending UC. All 10th-12th grade students in IT Pathway courses will participate in BPA (Business Professionals of America).

Automatic acceptance into the UC IT program requires successful completion of college level courses in English, Math, and Humanities prior to high school graduation. Preferred acceptance is an option when students have more than two completed IT courses but not all of the other IT pathway courses or additional college level courses.*
